HUGE ATTENDANCES AT CITY CHURCHES

Religious Revival Begins With Throngs of Attentive Worshipers Present.

Thorough appreciation of the importance of the special religious revival inaugurated in all of the Protestant churches of the city Sunday was manifest in extraordinary attendance at all of the services. At all of the churches included in the work, standing room only was to be had. In every church there was music of a special order of merit and sermons of exceptional force and impressiveness. Also there was in evidence among the worshipers a spirit of awakened interest which augurs well for the success of the campaign.

The pastor of each church was assisted at the opening service by noted evangelists and choir singers and long before the time appointed arrived the churches were filled. At the Methodist Memorial there was an especially pleasant attending.

The following excerpts are taken from sermons of the day:

"The ten commandments are precepts, rather than prohibitions," said Rev. Loren M. Edwards at the Methodist Memorial church Sunday evening in his sermon on "What Do I Think of Myself?"

"They are the silent sentinels of society. They guard man's name, his property, his wife and children. They are not merely a statement of divine authority, but are a tribute to human worth. The restrictions of kindly care, the protections of careful oversight, the constancy of personal supervision, may appear irksome, but they proclaim worth with an eloquence that will not be denied. They show, above all else, God's high estimate of man."

"It is but the statement of familiar truth to say that there has been a well-defined attempt to make man nothing higher than a worm of the dust. The good word of humility has been passed into the very bad word, self-depreciation, until nothing of value remains. Some people adopt the Uriah Heap brand of humility until they make of themselves snakes of the grass."

"They call the scriptures to their rescue and cite the fall as evidence of man's low estate. Yet that very doctrine of the fall may be employed in just the contrary direction as evidence of the dignity and capability of humanity. The fall pictures humanity in ruins, yet those very ruins reflect the very majesty of manhood. The Coliseum in ruins, but the ruins speak in mute, though cogent, eloquence of the greatness and the glory of that ancient amphitheater. Babylon is in ruins, but the vastness of those mouldering heaps tells the story of the mighty city that once was the glory of Chaldean pride. All over central Europe the ruins of cities, of cathedrals, of palaces and of great monuments will greet the eye of the visitor after the great war. They will carry the record of human vandalism, over the demon of war given a free hand, but they will also be the silent sentinels of a wonderful past whose strength and brilliancy went down before the murderous hands of man and monarch."

"It is possible to construct a doctrine of the fall so as to make of man a creature of sin, and to cast a slur at humanity. The simple truth is, however, that the doctrine of the fall is untenable unless you begin with human greatness."

First Baptist Church.

"As we enter into this revival campaign we need to believe that there is no other time like the present to make vital the Christian message, that there is no other place like our city for the preaching and teaching of this message," said Rev. E. E. Shouler at the First Baptist church Sunday.

"This service is not to be offered in the name of any single minister, church or denomination, but in the name of the Lord. Likewise whoever comes into a higher plane of living during these meetings will come in the name of the Lord. There is no other name given among men whereby they can be saved."

"This is a day of large things; we are learning in the Christian world as well as in the nation-wide movements that cooperation is no small factor in success. We are hearing much about the Chamber of Commerce in our city. This organization means that every business establishment will do the best possible for itself, but will cooperate with all interests for the largest success of the city. This simultaneous revival movement is of a similar nature to the Chamber of Commerce; it stands for church cooperation and not competition."

The attendance at this church Sunday was very large and the officials were very well satisfied with the opening of the campaign. Special music was furnished by a chorus choir led by Prof. De Perillo.

Emmanuel Baptist Church.

"The conscience is a faculty to judge one's standard of right and wrong," stated Rev. Frank of the Emmanuel Baptist church Sunday evening in his sermon on "Is One's Conscience a Safe Guide Through Life Into Eternity?"

"The conscience is a judge which passes on every contemplated action and is an officer to arrest one from doing wrong. It is also a prosecutor to condemn all past wrongs," said Mr. South. "No man ever offended God by his own conscience but first or last it was revealed upon him."

"Conscience, like the body, is temporal, and when individual choices cease, conscience ceases. Therefore, it is safe to trust one's conscience. It also has many capabilities, that of being strangled, and of education in a proper way or an improper way."

In conclusion the speaker stated that conscience was not a safe guide for life or eternity, for it is fallible. But Paul said that there was a measure, a rule, and it is the word of God, and therefore it is that which we should use for a guide through life.

The awakening and salvation of a soul; of misery coming back to joy; of want coming back to plenty; of sin and shame coming back to holiness and self respect" was the story told in the sermon of Rev. H. J. Burnett at the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

"Every process of the soul's return to God," said Dr. Burnett, "is suggested; conviction, contrition, confession, conversion. There can be no confession of sin without a sense of shame and this the young man has as he takes a spiritual inventory and realizes that he is not what he was as a pure boy at his mother's knee."

"Such is a picture of every life away from God, for the limitation of our manhood is the degradation of character. Life can find its fullest expression only under the inspiration of Christ. This feeling shows its misery upon us."

"There came the prodigal's determination to come back to his father. It was the only place he had to go and shows that he had some self respect left. It was the turning point in his career. The confession he made was true because he recognized first of all that he had sinned against heaven. It was humble because he was conscious of his unworthiness and it was blessed because he was fully restored to his place in the home. God calls us to decision, not by forcing us back to himself, but by showing us what we miss by following our own way. This is the compulsion of love, the lure of supreme good."

A male chorus was the musical feature of the evening and this was in charge of a special committee.

"The rapid progress of human events, has brought its message to the people; that the time has come in the rapidity of changes that a man cannot say wait—he must be ready to respond at once," said Rev. E. K. Van Winkle Sunday morning at the First Christian church.

He dwelt especially on the gospel. "It was good tidings to the Jews," he said, "when they heard of the coming of the king. But we rejoice in the tidings, for higher reasons that it is the forgiveness of the greater guilt and sin."

"Here Am I, Send Me," was the subject of the evening services. He said that the gospel of heaven brings a golden hope in that it broadens and puts men in the best position of doing the work needed by their fellow men.

MANY VOTERS OF CITY TO HEAR J. A. M. ADAIR

Primary Law to be Officially Explained at Mass Meeting Tonight.

Though the central committee is expecting to fill the Elks' temple auditorium Monday night with an audience desirous of meeting the Hon. John A. M. Adair and other state officials, Mishawaka is expected to have a representation at the meeting of not less than 300 men and women.

Congressman Adair, who is a candidate for the nomination of governor, will be accompanied by State Treasurer George W. Bittler, State Auditor Dale J. Crittenden, Sec'y of State Homer L. Cook, Atty. Gen. E. H. Stotsenberger, Deputy State Auditor James Fyfe and Philip Zoercher, reporter of the supreme court, provided his duties will permit him to join in the trip.

A special feature of the meeting of equal interest to every voter of whatever political faith will be the reading of the official interpretation of the new primary law as announced by the non-partisan committee appointed some time ago by the governor for this special purpose. This part of the program will be in charge of Atty. Gen. Stotsenberger, who was called in at a late hour by the last legislature to assist in drafting the measure.

Supreme Court Reporter Zoercher, who will make a special effort to be with the visiting state officials, will discuss and explain the primary law in the German language. Reporter Zoercher is an exceptionally fluent master of German, in consequence of which many Germans are expected to be in attendance Monday night. The Indianapolis party will arrive some time Monday morning to thus afford them sufficient opportunity to visit Mishawaka.

The program will start promptly at 8 o'clock, and during intermissions between speeches entertainment in the form of special musical talent will be offered. In addition to this, the auditorium will be suitably decorated for the occasion.

F. I. Hardy, superintendent of transportation of the street railway, has promised to provide whatever extra cars will be needed to comfortably convey the Mishawakans back home.

Here Am I, Send Me," was the subject of the evening services. He said that the gospel of heaven brings a golden hope in that it broadens and puts men in the best position of doing the work needed by their fellow men.

Rev. D. D. Spangler, pastor of the Evangelical church, spoke on the subject, "Preparation for Revival" at his evening service. Music of especial excellence featured both the morning and evening service at the church. The attendance was large at both meetings and the pastor anticipates some stirring meetings during the week.

CHURCH NOTES.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will meet in the parlors of the Methodist Memorial church on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mesdames Leslie, Edwards, Huber and Kizer will give brief reviews on chapter three of "King's Highway."

LOSS FROM FLAMES PLACED AT $75,000

about $500 insurance. The officers were located in the front part of the building and were totally destroyed.

C. H. Duffy, owner of a barber shop in the basement, stated, "My loss is about $1,000, covered by $750 insurance."

E. D. Powell, owner of a barber shop, said, "The loss is about $800 and is entirely covered."

Atty. Charles Metzger, "My law library I value at $1,000 and it has been seriously damaged by fire and water. The insurance well covers the loss."

H. W. Jones, "My loss was very little and is entirely covered by insurance."

The losses to the E. G. F. club was placed at $500 by C. R. Stevenson, and to the Earle Mining Co.'s offices, about $300.

As a result of the fire three members of the central station department are confined to their beds and are under the doctor's care. Edward Taggart, a dislocated shoulder blade, is the most painfully injured. William Ravnecraft, after the department returned to the station, collapsed and for several hours was unconscious. Clifford Kindy also collapsed, but recovered from the effects within an hour. Christian could not give an account as to how his injury was received. It was also stated that a member of the South Bend department received an injury and is under the care of a physician.

Chief Byusse in a statement Monday said that the fire was the worst he has ever encountered in Mishawaka and the fighting was made extremely difficult owing to the interior arrangement of the building. By the time the exact location of the fire was ascertained it was impossible to get within fighting distance, owing to the volumes of heavy smoke which rolled out from every crack and opening in the building.

The introduction of a recently purchased three-way, deluge set permitting a two-inch stream of high pressure to play upon the upper portion of the building, was all that checked the fire and enabled the men with the smaller streams to get in effective work. After the arrival of the South Bend department, eight streams of water were played upon the structure.

The fire proved a real test of the efficiency of the new east end water plant, as the pressure was at all times powerful and beyond criticism.

However, the department was greatly hampered by the lack of men and proper modern equipment to fight fires of this nature, and it is probable that the result will be an increase in the number of men and additional equipment.

Companies Cooperate.

At 3:30 it seemed the departments would work until daylight in their efforts to extinguish the fire. The South Bend companies were still on the job, rendering valuable assistance. The cooperation of the two departments was carried on in an orderly manner, and this harmony of action was responsible for the rapid results gained from the fight against the flames.

Thousands of gallons of water and chemical were turned on the flames, and in the mild weather was found a boon for the fighters. Cold weather would have meant freezing and perilous work on the ledges of the building, from which a great deal of the work had to be done, since the smoke was impenetrable at some points.

Tongues of flame shot from the windows and doors, but there seemed little danger from a back draught, since early preparations were made against an explosion.

Anxious faces of tenants of the building were turned upwards as they watched the progress of the fire. Efforts were made to save as much of the contents as possible, but the rapidity of the spread of the flames prevented much work along this line. The chief concern, after the first few minutes of fighting was in preventing a holocaust which would have wiped out thousands of dollars more in building and contents.

Fearful For Square.

That the square was saved was considered a miracle since there was every indication that the flames would lick up adjoining buildings. A half block from the bank on Main st. are some frame structures which would have gone up like chaff. Then, with enough headway, there was the entire Lincoln way string of two and three-story buildings lying easy prey to the conflagration. Conditions in the vicinity were ripe for one of the most terrible fires ever recorded in the history of northern Indiana and weather conditions and the absence of a high wind are looked to with thanksgiving by the residents of Mishawaka.

Many automobile parties from South Bend sped to the scene of the fire in the wake of the local companies. The macadam thoroughfare on Lincoln way was a tempting speedway which had its trial this morning. The fire companies from South Bend made what was considered record time in covering the intervening distance, four miles and more, to the bank building. Seeing the flames as they approached the city limits, the motors were opened to the limit and a roar of exhausts above the sound of the struggle for mastery of the blaze brought a ray of hope to those on the scene of the fire.

LEO BOYS PLAY IS GREAT SUCCESS

"Dark Before Dawn" is Attended by Several Hundred.

"Dark Before Dawn," a Civil war drama in two parts, was ably presented by members of the Leo Boys' society in the St. Joseph's hall, Sunday evening. The entertainment was attended by several hundred and was a splendid success. Music was furnished by an orchestra under the direction of Prof. A. G. Hoerstmann, and composed of Eugene Futterknack, piano, Prof. Hoerstmann, violin; Leo Hoerstmann, flute; Charles Futterknack, cornet; Ben Fetter, saxophone and Frank Yenn, drums.

The leading parts were taken by Joseph Fetter, as Mr. Lodlow, a southern planter; Leonard Chamberlain as his son, a corporal in the Union army; Gerald Michaels as little Jim, Dick's younger brother, Otto Futterknack as Old Joe, a slave of the family, and Maurice Yenn as General Sherman. The other characters were as follows: General Taggart, Arthur Philion; General Howard, Joseph Ganser; General Forester, Frank Parr; General Hardee, Francis Schnellack; Lieut. Page, Hardee's aide, Hildebert Clauss; sentinel, Edward Philion; Corporal Patty, Maurice Yenn.

Special numbers were given between acts. "The face on the Ball Room Floor" a recitation by Leonard Chamberlain, was of pleasing nature; "A Little Bit of Heaven," by Maurice Yenn was exceptionally good; Joseph Fetter contributed a recitation "Jim Broadway" which was greatly appreciated. "Cohen, on the Telephone" a number by Maurice Yenn kept the audience in an uproar of laughter.

Much credit for the success of the play is due to Rev. Edward Boney, under whose direction it was given.

ENJOY HAYRACK PARTY.

A party of young people enjoyed a hayrack party to the rural home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Lang, east of the city, Saturday evening. Instrumental selections were contributed by Peter Fetter. Recitations were given by Charles Dooley, Ben Hoerstmann and Joseph Fetter. Contests and games were also enjoyed. A fine luncheon was served. Covers were laid for 50.

MISHAWAKA MAY SEND ONE TEAM TO A. B. C.

During the past week there was much discussion at the Elks' bowling alleys of the American bowling congress tournament to be held this year at Toledo, O.

It has not yet been decided as to whether the city may send a team, but officials of the city bowling association were of the opinion that at least one team would be organized here to represent Mishawaka at the big national bowling event.

In the past years it has been the custom to send at least two teams from this city, but this year interest in bowling has been so intense at the local alleys that little attention has been given the crowning event of the year.

A recent letter from the secretary of the congress states that Toledo is preparing to handle over 3,000 bowlers who will participate in the three events of the tournament. Over $25,000 has been spent in promoting and installing equipment for the event.

RAILROAD MAN PROMISES BETTER MAIL SERVICE

Positive warning was issued by Mayor R. W. Gaylor, Monday morning to C. H. Brown, representative of the New York Central railroad, that if better mail train service was not furnished Mishawaka in the near future, the city officials would be compelled to take some drastic steps to enforce a consideration of their complaints. Mr. Brown appeared before the board of public works and stated that the matter was now before the railroad officials and some action would be taken to furnish the city better service.

The matter of the opening of Wenger st. across the Lake Shore tracks, was postponed one week.

LABEL AGAINST PRIEST CONTINUED BY LONG

The criminal libel proceedings instituted against Rev. Frank Kios, the alleged apostate Catholic priest, by Rosa Czech, which was to have been threatened out in Justice E. E. Long's court this morning, were continued to Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Attorneys for both the plaintiff and the defense announced over the telephone that a continuance was desired and this Justice Long granted.

Miss Czech is suing Rev. Kios for $10,000 heart balm.
